Donn

Thanks for the update. I had spoken to her too and her call to me raised a concern at our office about the extent of outreach to the communities nearby. I realize this site is not getting the kind of attention that the San Jacinto site has received nevertheless there are environmental justice issues with this site that I know the EPA is concerned about.

Best wishes

Rock, fyi- I contacted Ms. Martinez, a resident near the site, this a.m. and provided an update of that site's cleanup process, her health concerns and where she could get further information, that we would look into more signage out there, et c. I think the site's team will be following up with her at some point.
